Jessica Yorko is a graduate of Kalamazoo College in economics and environmental studies. A 10-year resident of Lansing's Genesee neighborhood, she manages the Westside

Commercial Association, revitalizing the Saginaw Street business district. In 2009, Jessica led the Lansing Complete Streets Ordinance campaign as one of 90 volunteers who collected more than 5,000 signatures to make Lansing an accessible, walk-and-bike-friendly city. Jessica co-chairs the Lansing Walking and Biking Task Force and is a member of the Lansing Public Service Board. Last year, she was honored as one of Lansing's "Top 10 Over the Next 10" — an annual award recognizing the region's 10 most successful young professionals. Jessica is also the mother of 6-year-old Nicholas.
